The abstract is a digest of the entire thesis and should be given the same careful attention as the main text. Reference to literature is not normally made in the abstract. Abbreviations or acronyms must be preceded by the full term at the first use. An abstract should not normally exceed 350 words. It includes a brief statement of the problem, a concise description of the research method and design, summary of major findings including the significance or the lack of it, and conclusions. The abstract should be given in the version to appear first is of the same language used in writing the thesis. The format of abstract heading is shown in Appendix B9 in Final Year Project Handbook. Common pitfalls such as spelling errors, incorrect usage of prepositions and prefixes (e.g. di, ke) should be avoided. Scientific terms must be used consistently.
